EFFECTS OF BAD SIDEWALKS.—Mr. DENNIS has presented a bill to the council for $700 for damages and costs sustained on Sixth Street, between Alder and B son She was on her way to her mill store on Morrison street, opposite the office on the corner of Third and Fourth with a look and proceeding caching her to fall forward on her face, bruising it and knocking her out.

The woman, obliged to leave the place as the shop is been closed, and account of injuries and the loss she has sustained asks for $700 and for her husband's and for her husband's suffering, but the owner who did not keep his side-reign should be made to pay. It is said that since the first of the month as there are many blocks in the where the vendors are unsafe, many of them being taken to the police station.
It is hoped that under the new regulations added to our city charter there will be as much difficulty in carrying on the repairs as in carrying on the found that property owners take responsibility for injuries caused by their sidewalks in the case of pedestrians.

It is said that a drunken man last night at about 11 o'clock yesterday afternoon a drunken man lying at the foot of Stark street near the approach to the ferry, attracted a crowd and tried to take a look at the flying spectacle and considered that it was amusing. When first he seen he was sitting on a ash barrel his head drooping and with him bracing himself so as not to fall back. He had been drinking and was very loud howling and shouting.
He gradually sank down until his head dropped into another ash barrel standing near the one he was sitting on. Several men were working on the street and boxes lifted him up and stood him up.

bank yesterday morning and presented a check for $100,000, payable to the order of the Commercial National bank, pay to E W Rose, or order, seven hundred and thirty thousand dollars ($730,000). The check was cashed and E W Rose was on board the steamer bound for San Francisco. Something aroused Mr. Gordon, a local politician, who telegraphed to Father & Co. of Portland who promptly replied that they drew checks in Portland only on local banks. The check was issued and the young man was arrested under the name of W B Hayward, member of a band of thieves. The following morning Justice Jay put him under bail.

Here are Box Racer's.—A correspondent writes that he was passenger on one of the lively little steamers plying between Portland and Astoria, writes to The Oregonian and makes complaint in regard to the "Box Racers" racing between the two seaports. Says: "Sunday evening the steamer Cyclops and Alarm ran a very dangerous race from Buxton to Astoria. The boats, bearing the O R & N Co. name, at the street dock, the Astoria crowded the Cyclops so closely that the latter boat barely made out. The boats were so close that the conflict was with the bows of the boats. The bows were interlocked until house was noticed a long row of large quantities of German prunes. The merchant stated that he had imported six tons of these prunes this year and other large quantities of the same large quantities. In answer to the question he stated that he looked upon this as probably his last large shipment of prunes from New York. There was a question asked, "Pruned here now," he said, and the foreign prunes are no more to be compared to this than chalk to cheese. He stated that he sold for about six cents per pound and in the previous years for about ten cents. In addition to this, he stated that there was a difference in cost of trifling amount compared to the difference in quality and the Oregon fruit will soon have the market.

BIRMINGHAM, Tex., May 24.—A meeting of the building committee and the local in charge of the work of constructing the cathedral was held at the office of Mr. W. D. the architect, last evening to one of the putting the roof on the building and for the floors. The walls of the south end of the choir stage about completed. The work of putting on the roof was commenced at once. A considerable number of bids were submitted but the contract was not awarded as the bids were not good enough and would be liable to cause misgivings. It was decided that the architect should have the bids and that the committee and that when this was done
